

More about this Episode

Meet Maryrose; Maryrose Solis is a freelance branding strategist and creative content marketer for women professionals, entrepreneurs and business owners based in San Diego, California. She earned her Bachelor's of Arts in Communications from the University of San Diego then went on to build a successful professional career in both corporate and startup tech spaces before deciding to become her own boss. She calls the journey to entrepreneurship, her #March4ward and leverages the experience in a signature program called #FindYourWAVE. The program takes you on a journey inward first to ensure you know where you came from, who you are today and what you value most for those are the building blocks to a brand with PURPOSE. Maryrose invites you to connect with her on social media platforms as @March4ward or on her website, www. March4ward.com.