

More about this Episode

Meet Karen: Karen Marie Jenkins is a visual brand artist, teacher, writer and personal brand/editorial photographer. She is the owner of Karen Marie Images & Branding (formerly Spirit & Soul Photography), a personal brand/editorial photography business primarily serving female entrepreneurs and creatives. Her mission is to empower entrepreneurs, in particular business women by producing creative, and unique 'stand-out' images that reflect their brand message and aligns with who they are. “As a woman, and an entrepreneur, I know how hard it is to stand out and feel confident in oneself. I have experienced these feelings far too many times throughout various times in my life.”

Karen’s mission is to support women in producing 'eye-catching' images that truly represent who they are and who they desire to be without apology. Karen Marie is invested not only in how business women and girls represent themselves, but in empowering them to embrace their power, authenticity and truth with confidence and style by creating an uplifting environment that produces engaging images that tell their story and visually represents their brand.
